CRILLY'S RESCUE OF LOUGHMAN CALLED TO NAVY'S ATTENTION

Admiral Moore Makes Mail
Report on Feat of Diver on
F-4 Salvage Work

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels has received a mail report from Rear Admiral C. B. T. Moore, commandant at Honolulu, calling the department's attention to the feat of Chief Gunner's Mate Frank Crilly, who went to the rescue of Diver Loughman, when the latter became entangled in the wreck of the sunken submarine F-4. The report expresses the hope that the submarine will eventually be raised.

ROOSEVELT DEMANDS ACTION TO UPHOLD THE NATIONAL HONOR

In Scathing Indictment of Wilson's "Peace at any Price" Policy, Appeals to Nation

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 12.—Stung by the implication of President Wilson's phrase in his Philadelphia speech that he pitied the man "who seeks to capitalize the passions of his fellow men," Theodore Roosevelt retorted here last night with a bitterly ironical statement to the nation. "Let China," says the former president, "take comfort from President Wilson's declaration that a nation can be so secure in the right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right!"

"If America is satisfied to occupy in the future the position that China occupies now, then she can afford to act on President Wilson's theory."

"The country should declare that in view of the murderous offenses of Germany, all commerce with Germany is forbidden, while at the same time, that with other belligerents is permitted."

"Such a course would not be a declaration of war but it would prevent the despatch of munitions to support strength for the slaughter of the unoffending."

"There are things worse than war. Peace is worthy only as the hand maiden of international righteousness and national self-respect."

Col. Roosevelt closed with an appeal to the nation to demand that the government take prompt action.

LUSITANIA TRAVELERS
GOT HIDDEN WARNING
OF PENDING TRAGEDY

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
NEW YORK, N. Y., May 12.—On the day the Lusitania sailed from this port, May 1, mysterious shadows circled about the pier, whispering in foreboding accents:

"Death travels on the Lusitania this voyage."

The warning spread like wildfire, sending thrill after thrill of terror through the passengers, but though a search of the pier was immediately instituted, the messengers fled.

Fifty telegrams, some of them anonymous, some signed Mors (death) were sent the night before to the better known passengers, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's message read:

"Cancel your passage at once. It is learned on the best of authority that the Lusitania will be torpedoed.—Mors."

Relatives of passengers pleaded earnestly that the advice be taken, but not a single passenger heeded it. Vanderbilt, Charles Frohman and several others who were warned personally, are now dead.

MANY MAINLAND TEACHERS WANT POSITIONS HERE

Annual Meeting of School Commission Will Be Non-Spec-tacular, Says Supt. Kinney.

More than 400 teachers from all parts of the mainland have applied for positions in the territorial schools. Nearly every mail brings from 30 to 40 requests for jobs, says Henry W. Kinney, superintendent of schools. "We have a regular picture gallery here," Mr. Kinney declares. "We get some applications from teachers who do not know how to even write English. The majority of applications from California are good. Of course the local teachers will get the preference when it comes to filling vacancies."

Mr. Kinney says that the department hopes to increase the Normal School to meet the demand for local teachers. It will try to encourage those graduating from the eighth grades to enter the Normal School rather than the high school so as to get appointments as local teachers.

He says that at present there are too few men in the department, and that the department will try and encourage some of the young men to enter the teaching profession. Since vocational training has been taken up, he says, there should be a greater attendance of men at the Normal School, as this is a man's work and work which most women cannot do.

The annual meeting of the school commissioners will be held next Saturday. It is expected that all commissioners will be present. The following matters of importance will be taken up:

Applications of teachers, appointment of teachers for the coming school year, revision of the rules and regulations so as to bring them up to date and considerations of applications for leaves of absence.

"As there have been no scandals or investigations," said Mr. Kinney today, "the session will be a very quiet one. It will be non-spectacular, for which I am very thankful."

Fort Shafter Notes

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
FORT SHAFTER, May 12.—The contractors constructing the twin reservoirs on reservoir hill, which is to supply Fort Kaneohe with water, are rather optimistic over their large undertaking and expect to have the sides filled in with concrete by the end of the week. A night shift will be put on beginning tonight, electric lights having been installed, and every advantage will be taken of the favorable weather. By making the "filling in" part of the work continuous, the cement will not have time to set and a smoother and more adhesive finish is assured.

The two tanks will have a capacity of 700,000 gallons and the cost of construction amounts to about $17,500. The contract calls for completion by August 24, 1915, but will be completed at a much earlier date, if nothing unforeseen happens.

The pipe line connecting the tanks with Fort Kaneohe is under another contract calling for completion by August 9, 1915, so the supply system should be in working order by September or possibly a little earlier.

The carpenters working on the platform for the aerodrome have found the task of construction greater than they at first estimated and will be unable to have it ready for Wednesday's "amateur night," so the management has decided to postpone it until the following Friday. While this is a great disappointment to the theatergoers of Fort Shafter we can wait until Friday and perhaps by Friday we will wish we had waited forever.

The ceremony of "Escort to the Color" will be performed at parade on Friday afternoon. First call will be sounded at 5:05 o'clock. The parades are becoming more popular every week and crowds of visitors in machines and on foot turn out to see them.

Lieut. N. W. Campanole has been on the sick report for the past few days with a bad case of tonsillitis, but is rapidly recovering and expects to join his company by the end of the week.

Stevenson Family Feud Is Renewed Mrs. Isobel Strong Field Is Sued

Mrs. Isobel Strong Field, step-daughter of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Friends here of Mrs. Isobel Strong Field and of the Stevensons have received news that Katherine D. Osbourne, divorced wife of Robert Louis Stevenson's stepson, is suing Mrs. Field for alimony due from the estate of the beloved novelist and poet.

This is the latest chapter in the series of bitter domestic squabbles among those connected intimately or more remotely with the Stevenson family. Most of them are known here.

Mrs. Field, then Mrs. Isobel Strong, was a visitor here a year ago, going from Hawaii to Samoa to visit the tomb of "R. L. S." at Vaillima.

Mrs. Osbourne's suit was filed in the superior court at San Francisco. The plaintiff is in New York city. Mrs. Field is Stevenson's stepdaughter and now resides in Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Osbourne recites in this suit that she was granted a divorce from Lloyd Osbourne, Mrs. Field's brother, in November, 1913, and received a settlement from her husband of $100,000 alimony during the remainder of her life.

Mrs. Fannie Lee de G. Stevenson, widow of the poet and mother of Osbourne, made an agreement at that time, it is averred, to be responsible for these payments.

Mrs. Stevenson died at Santa Barbara in July, 1914, and Mrs. Field was named as executor of her estate. Osbourne has not made any of the alimony payments since April, 1914, according to Mrs. Osbourne, and Mrs. Field, as executor of Mrs. Stevenson's estate, has refused to recognize the latter's agreement to make the payments if Osbourne defaulted.

Mrs. Stevenson's estate was to be called for final distribution in Santa Barbara, according to Sullivan, Sullivan & Roche, attorneys for Mrs. Osbourne, and the suit was filed in the local courts as an eleven-hour measure to stop the distribution until Mrs. Osbourne has had an opportunity to prosecute an action to have the alimony agreement declared a trust on Mrs. Stevenson's estate.

Recently Mrs. Osbourne attempted to secure an injunction in the New York courts to prevent Mrs. Field from holding an auction sale of books and other intimate personal effects of Stevenson, but she was not successful, the courts holding that she had no interest in the estate.

ON NAVY TO UPHOLD NATION'S PRESTIGE

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
NEW YORK, N. Y., May 12.—Speaking here yesterday at a luncheon given by officers of the Atlantic fleet to the Sons of the American Revolution, Admiral Fletcher told them that they might have confidence the navy in any emergency would vindicate the honor of the nation, uphold the traditions of the service and justify the pride of the people. George Washington was the theme of the speeches made. Thousands visited the fleet.

U. S. NOTE TO GERMANY WILL INSIST ON PROTECTION OF NON-COMBATANTS

Indiscriminate Slaughter Must Cease and Rules of Civilized Warfare Be Adhered To

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—President Wilson has decided on the first step to be taken in dealing with Germany.

At the cabinet meeting held here yesterday the president proposed and the cabinet agreed that the United States demand firmly that as between this nation and any of the belligerent powers, the recognized rules and international law of maritime warfare be observed.

As outlined by the president, the note will explain that the loss of scores of lives in the destruction of the Lusitania came to the American people as the climax of a series of incidents, each one of which wounded the nation more acutely in its dignity, until the cumulative resentment and anger had brought about a state of mind moderately to be described as "intense."

RIGHT TO SEARCH SHIPS CONCEDED.
The note then will go on to explain that the United States not only concedes the right of search on the high seas, but regards it as a necessary safeguard for the protection of non-combatants. Therefore, conceding the right to other belligerents, the United States will demand it of Germany.

Submarine warfare, the Germans have contended, has made visitation and search impossible, because the submarine, unable to distinguish with certainty the nationality of its prospective prey, is compelled to rise and summon it to halt, might expose itself to fatal gunfire from an armed enemy merchantman.

This contention, the United States is ready to treat as a mere quibble, and in doing so the president is aware, it was said last night at the White House, that he must be prepared to face whatever eventualities may ensue.

There is general belief that when the policy of the United States has been definitely formulated it will be transmitted direct to the German emperor.

Hundreds of confidential messages to the president have poured in on him every hour of the day, expressing indignation, all of them, but many opposing the idea of war.

U. S. Flag No Protection for Gulfight.
The state department made public last night the statement of Ralph Smith, lately first officer of the Gulfight, torpedoed off the Scilly Isles a week before the sinking of the Lusitania.

The mate says that when the ship was stricken she was flying an American ensign ten feet long by six feet wide. He distinctly saw the submarine and the course of the torpedo, but he did not observe that the submarine carried any flag and, not being an expert on submarines, he could not swear to its nationality.

Before the undersea hunter was sighted the British patrol boats Lago and Filey had accosted him, one at either side, and ordered him to follow them to Bishop Light. He was endeavoring to do so when his ship was sunk.

TAFT COUNSELS PATIENCE DURING TRYING CRISIS

[Associated Press by Federal Wireles]
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 12.—Former President Taft agreed tonight with former President Roosevelt that there are things worse in life than war, but he differed absolutely and unqualifiedly in his advice to the nation.

Professor Taft counseled the people to support President Wilson in patience and with calm.

"There are things in this life," he said, "more intolerable to support than even the horrors of war, but delay and deliberation will not alter the essence of the present situation and will not tend to minimize the ultimate effect of the decision to be made."

"Remember that in war it is with their lives that the people pay the cost."

President Wilson's high desire to interpret and effectuate the best thought of the nation, Professor Taft likened to that of Washington, Lincoln and McKinley, who also struggled, though in vain, to preserve the country they loved from war.
